

Red Feather Poster Displayed

MRS. RALPH EARLE, of Exeter Rd., Haverford, vice-president of the Philadelphia YWCA, displays the Red Feather poster with E. A. Roberts, president of the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Co., and general chairman of the 1948 Community Chest Campaign.

Roberts spoke at the recent national membership meeting of the YWCA, which is one of the 170 health, youth and welfare agencies to share in the $8,225,000 goal of the Chest Campaign starting November 6. More than 14 of these agencies service Main Line residents.

Merchants Approve $575 Budget For Christmas Decorations

Narberth merchants approved spending an estimated $575 for Christmas decorations in the Borough at a meeting held Monday night in the Arcadia Chios restaurant.

The cost will be covered by the merchants who will be charged according to front footage of their businesses.

The work will be done by the Brown Decorating Company, of Philadelphia. J. H. Brown, of Anthwyn Lane, Narberth, is president of the company.

Decorations will include four 14-foot bell towers with wreaths, as well as 12-foot poles for lights and clusters of candles, stars and old English lanterns, and 12-foot trees.

The area to be decorated includes Narberth Ave. from the railroad bridge to the Narberth Theater to the American Store; Haverford Ave., Station Circle to the Durbin and Howard Real Estate office; Forrest Ave., to the Fire House; Adelphi Brothers, and Essex Ave. to the garage and in front of the National Bank of Narberth.

In previous years, the cost of the decorations was covered by donations of residents as well as merchants. Public donations will be accepted this year despite the flat charged individual merchants.

Radnor Refutes Apartment Plan

Commissioners Oppose Rezoning Golf Club

The Radnor board of commissioners on Monday night refused permission to an Upper Darby Realty firm to build garden-type apartments on the site of the Main Line Golf Club. In the same motion the commissioners gave permission to a local builder to erect an apartment house on the Helm property, immediately next door to the golf club.

When Daniel Kelly and Frederick H. Meagher immediately entered a new petition, president Edgar Scott announced his intention of voting against it "if you apply for it ten times." Kelly and Meagher explained that the law permits them to petition for rezoning as often as they choose, so long as they do so within three months of refusal.

In a printed statement, commissioners explained that "after careful consideration of all points . . . and having in mind particularly the orderly development of the township and the health, safety, morals and general welfare of the community, the Board of Commissioners has unanimously concluded that it is proper to grant the application of Bayard Wharton and include the Helm property within the 'C' residential district presently adjacent to it, and to refuse the application of Wilbert Cagnon to rezone the main line golf course."

DR. FREW TO SPEAK

Dr. Allan MacLachlan Frew, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Ardmore, will speak on "The Golden Veil or the Iron Curtain" at a meeting of the Conshohocken Rotary Club Monday.

McFeely to Speak At Open Meeting

The Gladwyne School Parents Group is sponsoring an open meeting on Wednesday, Nov. 5, at 8 P. M., in the school building. Richard McFeely, headmaster of Friends-Central School, will speak on "The Parent, the Child and the School."

A committee headed by Mrs. Edward Morris and Mrs. J. Stanley Jordan will serve refreshments. Mrs. Joseph T. Harding is in charge of decorations.

The group is also planning a Clothing Exchange to be held in the School Gymnasium Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 10 and 11, from 9 A. M. until 10 P. M.

Men's, women's, children's and infants' clothing will be accepted for the sale as well as shoes and rubbers. Articles should be clean. They will be accepted on Nov. 7, from 3 to 5 P. M. and Nov. 8, from 10 A. M. until 2 P. M.

To Star in "Claudia"

MRS. WILLIAM O'BRIEN, Mrs. O'Brien, who lives in Wynnewood, will play the title role in "Claudia," to be presented by the Main Line Playhouse Saturday night in the Lower Merion High School auditorium. The male lead will be played by Robert Teter, also of Wynnewood.

Miss Ethel Phillips Dies in Narberth

Funeral services for Miss Ethel M. Phillips, who died Saturday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Hall, of 110 Elmwood Ave., Narberth, were held Tuesday afternoon from the Oliver H. Bair Funeral Parlor, Philadelphia.

Miss Phillips, who was 59, was associated with the Department of Supplies in Philadelphia General Hospital.

Upper Darby High Threatens L. Merion Streak Saturday

Lower Merion High's football win streak will be in jeopardy this Saturday when the Ardmore Aces play a powerful Upper Darby High team at the Royals' Memorial Field.

One of the suburb's top teams, Upper Darby suffered its first setback Saturday when Abington scored a 12-0 triumph. Thus the Royals will be on the rebound when they face Lower Merion.

Lower Merion marched to its sixth straight triumph Saturday before 5,000 at Ardmore, defeating Ridley Township High, 31-6. Coach Dick Mattis' charges scored in every period.

Leading the assault were Al Adams, Graham Hopper and Harry Barton. Adams contributed three touchdowns and spearheaded most of the Aces' drives, while Hopper and Barton each tallied once.

Adams, mixing speed with deception, broke loose for 30 yards for Lower Merion's opening touchdown. He sprinted 10 yards to another score in the second period after Don Shaver had recovered a Ridley fumble. Adams' third per-

County Bar Votes Against State-Wide Practice

Unanimous Action Taken After Phila. Approval Accused of Injustice

The Montgomery County Bar Association last Friday voted unanimously against permitting attorneys to practice in any county in Pennsylvania rather than only in their home counties.

"It is in the public interest for County Courts to maintain control over local County Bars," the Montgomery County Association declared as it endorsed the resolution against a move for State-wide practice by attorneys.

"Through this system the administration of justice can be administered most efficiently and expeditiously, and congestion, confusion and delay in the causes of litigants avoided."

The action was taken at a special meeting of the Association in the County Court House, Norristown, in answer to a resolution endorsing State-wide practice adopted October 7 by the Philadelphia Bar Association.

Ever since the proposal was first introduced at the Pennsylvania Bar Association convention in Atlantic City last summer, there has been much controversy over the question among lawyers and Bar Association members.

Montgomery County Association members have been in the "forefront" in the fight to keep the "home rule," and copies of their resolution against State-wide practice have been forwarded to Governor James H. Duff, the justices of the State Supreme Court and the president judges of all county courts.

In the meantime the county association has been accused of "making it practically impossible for an outsider to settle in Montgomery County and become a member of its bar."

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

It was announced that a general meeting would be held in the Penn Wynne school early in December.

Laurence H. Eldredge, of Bryn Mawr, member of the Philadelphia law firm of Norris, Bell, Lex, Hart and Eldredge, said the county association's action was an injustice. He said he knew of one lawyer who applied for admission in 1935, was at the head of the waiting list in 1939, but still hadn't been admitted.

Narberth Woman Loses Court Suit

Four Other Suits Filed in Norristown Involve B. M. Co., 3 Localities

A jury before Judge Knight last Thursday refused damages to Marfada Rossetti, of Centennial Rd., Narberth, in her claim for compensation for injuries against Clarence Proctor, of West Spring Ave., Ardmore.

The plaintiff charges she was struck by Proctor's car as she was crossing Ardmore Ave., at Lancaster Pike, Ardmore, last May 19. Proctor claimed he was making a right turn onto Ardmore Ave. when the woman walked against the side of the car.

Four other suits filed in the Montgomery County Prothonotary's office include the following: The Bryn Mawr Ice Manufacturing Co. and Cold Storage Company, have been named defendants in two suits resulting from an accident last June 28 on Bishop Hollow Rd., south of Newtown Square.

In the first action, George Trechok, a passenger in a car operated by William A. McGovern, which was involved in the accident with the defendant's truck, asks $2500 damages for injuries he received. The truck was driven by Harry Conlin.

In the second suit Margaret A. McGovern, owner of the car, claims $456.58 in damages for auto repairs. Laura Miller, trustee under the will of Henry W. Presse, deceased, has filed a suit against Josephine Connelly Huhn, of Wynnewood, for $145.50 alleged due in automobile repairs for damages suffered in a collision last March 7 on Lancaster Ave., Haverford.

Frank E. Hammer, Jr., of 314 Grayling Ave., Narberth, has filed a suit against Robert H. Welsh, of 211 Woodside Ave., Narberth, for $123 alleged due in car repairs following an accident March 24, 1946, on Haverford Ave., at Forrest Ave., Narberth.

Mrs. Diechler Exonerated In H. Wanamaker Death

At an inquest before Montgomery County Coroner W. J. Rushong last week, Mrs. Alma R. Diechler, of Rosemont, was exonerated in the death of Horace Wanamaker, Sr., 79, of 210 Essex Ave., Narberth. Wanamaker died in Bryn Mawr Hospital October 9, four hours after being struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. Diechler.

Woman Killed in Freak Accident

Pinned Under Truck; Driver Held

Mrs. Martha Mills Steele, 62, 121 Glenn Rd., Ardmore, was killed in a freak accident in front of her home Wednesday noon.

She was crushed under a light delivery truck which overturned with a motorcar at St. George's Rd. and Glenn Rd., a short distance away.

Unaware that the woman was pinned under the truck, both drivers left their vehicles to discuss the accident. It was only when a maid, Mrs. Eleanor S. Daniels, ran from the house looking for Mrs. Steele that she was discovered by bystanders under the wreckage. She was pronounced dead by Dr. Gustave A. VanLennep, father of Miss Florence VanLennep, 25, of 127 Edgewood Rd., Ardmore, driver of the motorcar.

The truck was driven by Edward Ellis Ford, 33, of 5540 Cabot St., Philadelphia. Both drivers were held for the Coroner's Jury on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. Justice of the Peace Franklin P. Kromer set bail at $500 each.

Accuse Singer of Tipsy Driving

Second Accident in Month for Gladwyne Girl

Miss Katherine B. Grancell, 23, of Young's Ford Rd., Gladwyne, was held for court in $800 bail Saturday after her car lost a wheel on Anderson Ave., ran over the front steps of Magistrate Joseph B. Lowner's office and struck a corner of the Pennsylvania Railroad overpass.

Lower Merion policeman James Wentz said Miss Grancell proceeded on three wheels, crossing Montgomery Ave., and driving half a mile on Mill Creek Rd. Dr. J. L. Shoemaker, police surgeon, pronounced her unfit to drive, and she was held by Justice of Peace J. Franklin Kromer on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor.

Miss Grancell, a night club singer, was acquitted of hit-run charges in Philadelphia on September 30, after figuring in two automobile accidents within one block, in the central city district.

G. O. P. Victory Seen in County; Only Token Opposition Offered

Local Mothers Compare Notes

MRS. KARL KLINK, 22, of 830 Montgomery Ave., Narberth, and Mrs. William Paolantonio, 28, of 32 Holland Ave., Ardmore, found that they had a lot in common when they shared a room in the maternity section of Bryn Mawr Hospital.

They discovered they had been married on the same day April 27, 1946, held their wedding receptions at the same place, Wayne Hotel, and both honeymooned in Montreal.

However, although they also entered the Bryn Mawr Hospital at the same time, their children were born a day apart.

Mrs. Klink had an eight-pound-three-ounce son, Karl, Jr., on October 15, while Mrs. Paolantonio had a six-pound-three-ounce girl, Mary Ann, the following day. Mrs. Klink left the hospital last Thursday and Mrs. Paolantonio on Friday.

The Klinks were married in the First Presbyterian Church, Ardmore, and the Paolantonios in St. Colman's Church, Ardmore.

—Courtesy the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin

Ballot Greatest Asset to Save Our Way of Life, Says Lafore

John A. Lafore, Jr., chairman of the Lower Merion Township Republican Committee, stated this week that the greatest single instrument held by the American people to preserve and perpetuate the American way of life is the ballot.

Lafore, who is also a candidate for County controller, spoke at a luncheon-meeting of the Lower Merion-Norristown Council of Republican Women Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Owen J. Toland, Aubrey Ave., Wynnewood.

"Most voters take the privilege of voting for granted," Lafore said, "but if they could see conditions in Europe they would be among the first to exercise their franchise next Tuesday."

Lafore urged all members of the Council to see that their friends and neighbors voted on November 4.

Congressman Samuel K. McCone-

Where to Vote In Narberth

Narberth, No. 1, Narberth Fire Company, Elm Hall, Forrest Ave.

Narberth, No. 2, Community Building, Windsor and Conway Ave., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 3, Baptist Church of the Evangel, Elmwood Ave.

Narberth, No. 4, St. John's Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 5, St. Mary's Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 6, St. Peter's Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 7, St. Paul's Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 8, St. Vincent's Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 9, St. James' Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 10, St. Anthony's Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 11, St. Francis' Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 12, St. Elizabeth's Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

Narberth, No. 13, St. John's Church, 1000 N. 1st St., Narberth.

